

Wasatch Announces Reopening of Core Growth, International Growth, and Small Cap Growth Funds

Salt Lake City, Utah, March 27, 2020—Wasatch Global Investors announced today that it would reopen the Wasatch Core Growth, International Growth, and Small Cap Growth Funds and related institutional strategies to new investors, effective immediately.

Consistent with Wasatch’s longstanding commitment to its shareholders, the funds had previously been closed to new investors to ensure the firm could maintain its disciplined and focused investment approach. The reopening of the strategies reflects Wasatch’s view that current market volatility and dislocations present attractive opportunities for long-term investors. The firm remains committed to thoughtfully managing capacity and will continue to close strategies to protect performance for existing shareholders.

“Despite what is an uncertain environment for investors, we feel no less conviction in our long-term approach to investment management,” said Eric Bergeson, President of Wasatch Global Investors. “Time and again, Wasatch has found that difficult markets highlight the attributes of investing in high-quality companies with excellent management teams that have the ability to grow for years. While Wasatch remains financially strong and has not seen significant outflows, the opportunities currently available in the market warrant reopening the strategies to new investors. Rest assured that Wasatch remains resolute in its commitment to limiting capacity and will once again close the strategies well before asset growth impacts performance.”
